

E Pluribus Unum?

(Matt Loat and Docrobin 2019)

Society's dregs at the bottom of the barrel without a voice
In need of an advocate because we were given no choice
A system full of corruption and failures a real vol-de-mort
This evil of self-interest ultimately the truth will distort

Is it just a dream to have equal support and rights
Or betrayal of the Magna Carta that makes us see the light
Politics and statistics are all that seem to matter
Imposed glass ceilings the things that we must shatter

Should the advocate come from above or from below
It matters not but someone must pick up the gauntlet
"To speech not arms" the instrument we must bestow
That could be an armoured glove, words or a bullet

Strong argument by one on behalf of the masses
Society should be all together not divided by classes
Equality from the same core maleficence from the few
Listening more than talking the game starts anew

Co-existence should benefit all in equal measure
Not a reason for the few to bury some treasure
Better to live in harmony than to die in conflict
Be remembered for trying to get the right verdict
