

They Say

To be human
Is to love
Without boundaries
To breathe in
The clean crisp air
And to cry
Tears of mistakes away

It is to be there
When someone should
And when nobody else can
It is to smile
Even if it hurts
And it is to know
When it is kinder to be silent

It is to hide
Your failures from others
But shout
Our successes from rooftops
It is to shrug our shoulders
At other peoples' choices
Just as much as it is to get angry
And rant to the disinterested

It is to be fragile
And strong
All in the same moment of time

We share it all

The good

And the bad

Even if we don't

Look the same

Think the same

Sound the same

Because that is our right

To do

To be

Human

Lexi Daran