

Freedom

By Theresa Mason

I'm free to marry, I'm free to roam.

I'm free to wander the streets alone.

I'm free to believe, I'm free to pray.

I'm free to speak, each and every day.

I have my freedom, no worries or cares.

But others are less fortunate and that isn't fair.

I count my blessings for my liberty.

But others are living in sheer poverty.

I reside in a country that's living in peace

But others are living where wars never cease.

I'm safe and secure in my own little bubble.

But I watch on the TV and see all the trouble.

I don't have the answers to the problems of life

But I pray to my God to end all the strife.
