

LOVE by Simon Harrison

Love can be a confusing emotion for many
It's not deceiving or trying to catch us out
We just need to understand what it's about

A strong clear mental state
What we all like is to feel great
Love is contagious
And not just for the courageous

Many people their love they demand
But it really isn't something you can command

Recovery from love for some can be very long
Regardless if you believe you were right or wrong

In love you feel a deep affection
Solid protection
Like or enjoy very much

You can have love in many different ways
For many different things
Food, animals, families, partners, gold and diamond rings

For me its human kindness
And the things that will constantly remind us
It's not a minus but a plus
Unconditional love it's a must

ONE LOVE
