

Lifting the Lid

I'm lifting the lid, well I would if I could!

So I'm lifting the lid on current thinking.

Up and down the land, plastic lids are banned.

At some point, someone, somewhere decreed we no longer need our plastic lids.

I'm talking pots for yogurt and cottage cheese.

Do I want my food fresh and safe? Yes, please.

Those lovely lids, practical, reusable, recyclable.

Cling film is no match for a plastic lid.

It slithers and slides atop the pot,
then onwards to landfill . . . to languish at leisure.

'Bring back lids!' is my rallying cry.

So now I've lifted the lid on this lack of lids,

I just want to close with the click of a lid.

By Chris Farn